R. F. C. Made Loans Of $84,000,000 to N. Y. Institutions

Report Made at Request of Congress Shows Loans of $1,195,305,774 to All Institutions—Savings Bank Gets $60,000.

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, that agency reported to Congress today, made loans to New York state financial institutions totalling more than $84,000,000 between February and July of last year.

The report, made at the request of Congress, showed total loans to all institutions of the nation of $1,195,305,774. The figures for New York covered loans authorized for banks, mortgage loan companies, insurance and surety concerns, building and loan associations and credit unions.

To 104 banks and trust companies of the state, the finance corporation extended aid amounting to $24,457,000. These institutions ranged from large New York city banks to the tiny institutions in small upstate villages.

The greatest total loan made to any one group of financial institutions, however, was to the mortgage loan companies. To these concerns the corporation authorized loans of $24,270,000.

Insurance companies were the next in size of total loans, these houses many of them national headquarters for companies, received approximately $20,530,000.

Building and loan associations were granted aid amounting to $2,210,000 while the comparatively small credit union group received but $20,000.

A mortgage loan organization, the Prudence Company, received the largest loan, $20,000,000. The National Surety Company received the next largest loan for the state, $11,800,000, while the New York Title and Mortgage Company was third with a $8,000,000 loan.

A loan of $50,000 to the First National Bank and Trust Company of Saugerties, was the only one in Ulster county reported.

9 Communists Dead, 11 Wounded in Berlin

Berlin, Jan. 26 (AP).—Communists and police pointed accusing fingers at each other today in the aftermath of the most sanguinary clash in Saxony's recent history—a battle in which nine Communists died and eleven were wounded.

Fifteen hundred persons gathered last night at a forbidden meeting in Dresden. A speaker began "abusing" Adolf Hitler's Nazis, the police report said, whereupon police crashed into the crowd in a flying wedge. The audience, the report said, started hurling beer mugs and chairs at the officers and some one in a gallery fired a shot. Then the police opened fire.

The Communists gave a different version, saying that the meeting was proceeding quietly until a speaker assailed the Nazis and then the police fired "without warning."

Two Outstanding Bills by Wicks

Nearly 1,000 bills have been introduced in the state legislature to date, the Senate total being 440 and those in the Assembly, 557. Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston introduced two outstanding bills in the Senate. One bill calls for the staying of mortgage foreclosure actions determined to be unjust, unreasonable or oppressive and for suspending the provisions of the real property law relating to foreclosure by advertisement during the existing financial emergency. Another bill by Senator Wicks would require the state to reimburse localities for forty per cent of expenditures directly appropriated for veteran relief.

DOUGLAS CARTER ALTERNATE FOR WEST POINT EXAMS.

New York, Jan. 26.—Douglas Carter of Kingston, N. Y., has been designated second alternate for the March 7, 1933, entrance examinations for admission to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, according to War Department orders received today at the headquarters of the Second Corps area on Governors Island.

Douglas Carter is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Carter, of 231 West Chestnut street.

Rock Slide Delays West Shore Trains

A slide of rock a couple of miles south of Highland last evening near Kidd's Cove delayed train service on the West Shore for some time. The train out of Kingston at 7:49 met with difficulty when the forward part of the engine was derailed before the engineer could stop his train when he learned of the slide. Spreading rails due to the slide caused the engine to become derailed. A wrecking crew from Kingston went to the scene and cleared the tracks. The slide did not damage the north bound tracks and north bound traffic was but slightly delayed.

Dismissal Ends Suit Against Church

A negligence action brought by Delia Collins against The Church of St. Mary, Inc., of Kingston was taken up in county court Wednesday afternoon before Judge Traver and a jury.

Miss Collins seeks to recover $3,000 damages for injuries which she sustained when she fell in St. Mary's school hall on October 26, 1930, when she was about to descend the stairs to the basement where the ladies' room is located. Her claim is based on the theory that she was invited in the building and that the public was invited or permitted to use the rest rooms in the school building while in attendance at services at St. Mary's Church. She was a member of the congregation and had gone to the church property to attend the morning Mass. Just prior to the 10 o'clock Mass she entered the school hall building and started to the basement. As she started down the steps leading to the basement she fell down some 8 or 10 steps and was injured. Her charge of negligence is that there was no light on the stairs at the time and the darkened condition constituted negligence on the part of the church officials.

The defense is that the church was not an invitee and that the school hall had nothing to do with the church to which Miss Collins had gone and on the further grounds that the stairs were protected with suitable rails on each side of the steps and that if Miss Collins was injured it was through her lack of care. Defendant contends that Miss Collins had gone to the premises to attend church services in a building across the street from the school building and that she entered the school building of her own accord.

The action was previously in county court and when taken up for trial it was discovered that the complainant demanded $5,000 damages in the complaint and the county court has no jurisdiction in matters where over $3,000 is demanded. At that time Judge Traver permitted the case to be withdrawn and the complaint was amended to read "damages in the sum of $3,000" instead of the former $5,000 thus bringing it within the jurisdiction of the county court.

Dean Scully, former pastor at St. Mary's Church and now in New York city, was the first witness. He testified that at the time of the accident he was in charge of the parish property. He described the school hall and the stairway leading to the basement. He said he could not swear positively that there were two rails on the stairs at the time of the accident as he had frequently had trouble with keeping the rails in position. School children damaged the rail and he had caused it to be repaired several times and there were times when it was not in place. He said he was not in place on the day of the accident. He knew it had been broken off several times and repaired. He also testified that he had caused a light to be placed so as to light up the stairway.

Next came City Marshal Costello. He said he was in front of the school building about 9:45 o'clock the morning of the accident and heard Miss Collins call his name. He went in and found her near the stairs with a severe cut on her head. He went out and saw Chief Joseph Murphy crossing the street from the church and summoned his aid. Mr. Costello said he did not observe whether both rails were in place or not. One was in position for he used it in descending the stairway. There was a light at the bottom of the steps and it was not lighted. He pulled the switch. He then noticed a light on the wall to light the steps but it was not turned on at the time. He described the school hall and the steps leading to the basement.

Chief Murphy was called next but he had been summoned from the court room by reason of a fire alarm and Miss Collins took the stand. She told of having entered the school hall to go to the basement before going to church and of her fall on the stairs and the resultant injuries.

Judge Bernard A. Gullotta appeared for plaintiff and District Attorney Cleon E. Murray appeared for defendant.

Judge Traver reserved decision until this morning on a motion to dismiss the complaint which was made after the trial had progressed.

Judge Traver this morning at the opening of court stated that the authorities held that a person unfamiliar with the surroundings of a building should not venture out into an unlighted place where they were unable to see clearly and that such an act on the part of a person constituted negligence on their part. He cited a decision of the appellate division which held this to be the law. Consequently he granted the motion of counsel for the defendant, Cleon E. Murray, and dismissed the complaint.

A negligence action brought by Dr. Bertram W. Gifford of Saugerties against Leon Smith of the town of Saugerties to recover damages arising out of an automobile accident was taken up for trial. George F. Kaufman appeared for plaintiff and W. F. Donohue is attorney of record for defendant.

Find Body in Mohawk River.

Montgomery county authorities today were seeking to identify the body of a man, believed to be about 60 years of age, found late yesterday in the Mohawk river near Fondra, wedged between stones three feet from shore.

Twenty Children Were Vaccinated

The free vaccination clinic held on Wednesday afternoon at the rooms of the board of health at the city hall, was well attended and twenty children were vaccinated by Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, who had charge of the clinic. No smallpox has been reported in Kingston in some time, but a number of cases broke out in Dutchess county last year. These free clinics are being held here for the purpose of immunizing children from the disease.

Drum Corps Card Party

The American Legion drum corps will hold a card party in the Memorial building this evening to which the public is invited. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Investigating Slatin Grocery Store Fire

North Front Street Fire This Morning at 4 O'clock Being Investigated By Firemen—Street Filled With Dense Smoke.

Fire of undetermined origin was discovered in the Slatin grocery store on North Front street at the head of Crown street about 4 o'clock this morning and before the blaze was subdued considerable damage had been done to the building which is owned by Joseph Johnson. The fire started in the cellar near the front of the store almost directly underneath the cooler which is located on the store floor. The flames burned back in and did considerable damage to door timbers.

When discovered the fire was burning briskly and the smoke was intense, blown out into North Front street by a northwest wind the street was filled with a dense smoke which hung on the damp air and made work difficult for the firemen who were compelled to don gas masks in order to approach and get at the fire.

In the cellar was a considerable amount of food stuff stored. The alarm was rung in from box 94 at about 4 o'clock and it was an hour before the fire out signal was sent in. Before the fire was under control the flames had eaten through the floor back of the counter and the interior of the store was damaged by smoke.

But a few days ago the interior of the store had been newly painted by the owner.

The fire was practically confined to the cellar and the damage in the store is from the intense smoke which filled the store. Mr. Slatin recently moved his market from Broadway and Cedar street to the North Front street location which is the building which for many years was occupied by the James Kelley grocery and feed store.

Firemen were placed in charge today with instructions to permit no one to enter pending a check-up and investigation.

Elwyn Separation Suit in Queens Court

Woodstock Merchant Applies for Change of Place of Trial to Ulster County of Suit Brought by His Wife.

Jamaica, N. Y., Jan. 26 (Special).—An application was made by Leslie Elwyn, Woodstock, general store operator, in the Queens Supreme Court, Jamaica, Wednesday for a change of venue in a separation action brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Alice Elwyn, in that tribunal. At the same time, Mrs. Elwyn asked for alimony and counsel fee pending trial of her suit, and also an accounting of his property.

Counsel for Mrs. Elwyn before Justice James A. Dunne said his client left her husband on October 13 last, moving to 20-40 25th street, Astoria, New York city. At that time, she withdrew $4,000 from a joint account which she and her husband had in a Kingston bank and left her daughter, Eleanor, five in care of her husband. The separation suit was started December 26 in the Queens Supreme Court. Mrs. Elwyn proving she had been a resident of the county for two months.

Mrs. Elwyn's lawyer argued against the transfer of the case to the Ulster county court, stating that Elwyn has made many friends through his business and also as town clerk for fourteen years. It was also stated that Mrs. Elwyn has thirteen witnesses, all residing in New York city, who will testify at the separation trial, while her husband has but nine.

Elwyn's counsel declared that Mrs. Elwyn's allegation that on January 2, 1932, her husband choked her is the only charge made in the complaint, as to cruelty. On October 18, after taking the money from the bank, Elwyn claims, his wife wrote him the following note:

"I am sorry but I can't stick it out any longer. I'm going to New York." It was signed "Alice."

Mrs. Elwyn claims her husband has an income of $10,000 from his general store in Woodstock. Together with moneys in banks, stock and real estate, she said, he is worth more than $60,000. The opposing attorney said the store earnings at present are not enough to carry the property, the stock is practically worthless and that but $3,000 is in banks.

Justice Dunne accepted legal papers from both attorneys and reserved decision on all three applications. No date has been set for the trial of the separation action.

Reforestation Data In Ulster County Orchard of the World

Supervisor of Forestry Exhibits Gives Facts About Reforestation in Ulster County and New York State.

There are between four and five million acres of land lying idle in New York State that could and should be reforested, declared Conservation Department officials. Every county in the state contributes its share of idle land to this total. Ulster county, with 90,000 acres of idle land, is one of the largest contributors in this part of the state, though the counties adjacent to Ulster have plenty of idle land. Columbia county has 25,000 idle acres, Dutchess has 20,000 acres, Greene 50,000 acres, Orange 70,000 acres, Sullivan 50,000 acres and Delaware county 100,000 acres.

George E. Stevens, supervisor of forestry exhibits of the Conservation Department, who is now featuring a reforestation exhibit at the old state army building this week in conjunction with the New York State Horticultural Society, says that there are over 16,500 individuals who have planted trees and established forest plantations in the state, aggregating the planting of over 150,000 trees since 1909. The state of New York on its own land has planted over 114,000,000 trees since 1907.

In the city of Kingston, Mr. Stevens further states there are over 21 persons who have reforested idle land while there are over 271 persons who have reforested idle land in the county. The city of Kingston alone, has planted over 153,000 forest trees on its watershed while the village of Saugerties has planted over 73,000 forest trees, on its watershed. The city of New York has planted over 155,000 forest trees on its watershed in Ulster county.

Since 1909, a total of over 3,500,000 forest trees have been planted in Ulster county, the state of New York having planted over 1,400,000 of these on its own land.

Mr. Stevens also advises that the Conservation Department maintains six forest tree nurseries in the state where over 50,000,000 trees are raised annually for reforesting idle land. The trees are sold at cost (from $2 to $5 per thousand) to all private planters for reforesting idle land, while trees are furnished without cost to all municipalities, service organizations, counties, towns, villages and cities for use on publicly owned land. No trees are furnished for ornamental plantings nor in orders less than one thousand trees. Trees are furnished entirely for reforesting idle land. Twelve hundred trees are required to plant an acre, planted 6 feet apart each way. In planting for Christmas trees, trees are planted three feet apart each way which requires 4,800 trees to the acre. Trees for fence and fire break are planted three, four and five feet apart which would require 4,800 trees, 3,600 trees and 2,400 trees respectively, to the acre.

Reforesting idle land, says Mr. Stevens, will provide future watershed protection, regulated stream flow, timber supply, hunting and fishing areas, recreational grounds, beautified landscapes and permanent employment for many.

Gov. Lehman Prepares His Budget Message

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP).—Governor Lehman put the finishing touches on the important state economy and revenue proposals in his executive budget today, and prepared to submit his budget message to the legislature next Monday night.

He remained silent, however, on the financial plan he will offer as a way to untangle New York's fiscal machinery from its present difficulties.

This plan represents the results of many weeks of effort by the New York governor, who since last autumn has been seeking a solution to complicated problems of revenue and expenditure that threaten a deficit of $147,000,000 to $200,000,000 by next July 1.

Many of the legislators were leaving to spend the week-end recess at home today as the governor reviewed privately his budget proposals.

On Monday night the lawmakers will return. Their duty will be to pass upon the budget which Mr. Lehman has promised will be "very substantially" lower than the current budget of $276,000,000.

CONFERENCE OF N. Y. STATE NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATIONS

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP).—Members of four New York State newspaper associations converged upon Syracuse today for a series of conferences embracing radio broadcasting, economy, technocracy and other matters of interest to publishers and editors.

Meetings of the four organizations will continue through Saturday. The groups are the New York State Publishers Association, the New York State Press Association, and the Associated Press of New York State.

Special Trip By Rhinebeck Ferry

Mayor Eugene B. Carey announced Wednesday that he had completed arrangements for a special schedule of the Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry Thursday night. The ferry will leave Kingston at 9:45 p. m. after the dinner of the New York State Horticultural Society at the Governor Clinton Hotel. This special trip will enable members and friends on the east side of the river to reach their homes without delay, touring by way of Highland and Poughkeepsie.

Biggest McIntosh Farm Credit Discussed Before Horticulturalists

Workings of the Federal Land Bank and the Regional Agricultural Credit Association Explained by Officials of These Organizations—A Few Kind Words for the Busy Bee, Advertising and Pollinating.

Among the prominent men who are attending the Kingston meeting of the State Horticultural Society is the Hon. Fred L. Porter, Assemblyman from Essex county, a member of the State Legislature since 1921 and for the past three years chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the most important committee of the Assembly.

Mr. Porter, who is a life member of the Horticultural Society, is not only one of the legislative leaders of the state but also one of the leading fruit growers, being president of Chazy Orchards, Inc., the largest McIntosh planting in the world. Of the tract of 1,096 acres at Chazy, 1,200 acres are set out to apples. The Chazy Orchards shipped 17 carloads of apples the past season, besides some 5,000 bushels sold from their modern wayside market at Chazy.

In addition to the Chazy orchards Mr. Porter is head of the Northern Orchards Co., which conducts a large orchard at Peru, Clinton county, where 60,000 bushels were packed the past season and placed in the company's own storage plant for later sale.

Mr. Porter's home is at Crown Point, N. Y. He also has a summer camp at Chazy which has the distinction of being the first log home built in that section, dating back to 1776. He arrived in Kingston Wednesday afternoon, stopping at the Governor Clinton, and visited the exhibition at the armory, which he said was an excellent one. Jay Golder, manager of the Chazy Orchards, was on the program for an address at the city hall this afternoon, his subject being "Disposal of Apples at a Wayside Market."

Besides his prominence as a fruit grower Mr. Porter is one of the leading members of the G. L. F. and has been for several years president of that organization. He says that in November the G. L. F. did the largest business, in volume, since its organization.

Farm Credit Discussed Before Horticulturalists

Workings of the Federal Land Bank and the Regional Agricultural Credit Association Explained by Officials of These Organizations—A Few Kind Words for the Busy Bee, Advertising and Pollinating.

The Common Council room at the city hall was again filled Wednesday afternoon for the second session of the three days meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society. The speaking programs are being held at the city hall, while the Society's exhibit and the exhibits of machinery and various products in the horticultural field are shown at the old armory, where every bit of available space is being utilized. The exhibit at the armory is open to the general public, there being no admission charge.

The Wednesday afternoon program was a most interesting one and included two addresses of more interest, or at least of interest to a large part of the population these days—"Farm Credit" as extended through the Federal Land Bank and "The Type of Credit Extended by Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation." Both of these subjects were discussed by authorities, the first by E. H. Thomson, president of the Federal Land Bank of Springfield, Mass., and the other by John E. Faulkner, secretary-treasurer of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Albany.

President Thomson, in introducing his discussion of the Land Bank today said that what the farmer needed today was not so much more credit for increased business as the need of getting out of debt. Few farmers are borrowing to expand their business, but many have been compelled to refinance their current debts, which may be either in the form of short-term notes or mortgages which have been called for payment by local or individual banks. In regard to this the speaker said:

"The bank has approved all applications where the farmers are solvent and where they have offered adequate security. It has not used its additional capital, made available by the act of congress, to buy its bonds at a discount instead of making loans to farmers. We feel it is the bank's obligation to agriculture in this district, and in this period of depression, to make these loans. We have every faith in the farmer of the north-eastern states and of the farm lands of this district. The bank has always championed the farmer's rights and has made an honest effort to furnish constructive credit for his operations. The bank was formed for that purpose and has not altered its course. The Federal Land Bank of Springfield, however, is under no obligation to pay off other creditors of farmers who are hopelessly involved in debt and to take over the collection jobs which others find impossible. Frequently such creditors of insolvent farmers are disappointed when the Federal Land Bank refuses to make such loans and loudly complain that the bank is not doing its duty."

Answering the question, "What is the Federal Land Bank?" President Thomson said: "Twelve of these Land Banks were authorized by congress in 1917, but contrary to popular impression they are not governmental institutions. It is true that congress authorizes the treasury to subscribe the original capital to the amount of $750,000 to each bank, but with the provisions that as loans were made, the capital subscribed by the national farm loan associations would provide funds for the repayment of the treasury subscription. Of the $8,892,130 subscribed by the United States, all but $147,220.59 has been repaid as of September 30, 1932. The last available statement shows that the farmer borrowed through the medium of the national farm loan associations over $63,336,950.00 of capital in the 12 banks. Additional capital in the sum of 125 million dollars was subscribed by the treasury of the treasury in the early part of 1932 to enable the banks to better meet farm conditions at this time."

"The Federal Land Banks are in character in that the earnings over and above the operating expenses and necessary reserves are returned to the farm loan associations as dividends on their stock and, through them, to the farmer borrowers. Four of the seven directors of the banks are either elected or nominated by the people whom the banks serve. The funds for loans are largely obtained from the sale of Federal Land Bank bonds to the investing public."

"All applications for loans must originate with the national farm loan associations of which there is at least one in every county. The members of these loan associations are made up of the borrowers within that community. They elect their own board of directors and their own appraisal committee, and have absolute authority not only to whom loans should be granted but in what amount. Applications having the approval of the local association then come to the Federal Land Bank and a second appraisal is made. The bank cannot grant a sum larger than the local association's recommendation but may reject the loan entirely."

"In short, the Federal Land Bank is the farmers' own system whereby opportunity is afforded to pool their credit for the purpose of loans term mortgage loans that fit the nature of the farm business."

"The rate of interest on mortgage loans is 6 per cent."

The speaker stressed the increasing importance of right soil conditions as a factor in fruit growing, saying that "With the mounting economic pressure some orchards which were able to return a profit at so do at lower prices. The most important factor in production cost is yield and the foundation of high yield is favorable soil. He stated that soil alone might make a difference of from 50 to 100 per cent in yield. The management of orchards should be in accordance with the limits that soil conditions have set upon their productivity."

The most important soil factor is drainage—fertility can be supplied at comparatively small cost. Soil suitability is tested by examination of the subsoil. Where this is right there is a general uniformity of color and fruit trees in such soil are usually deep-rooted and productive.

Improper drainage, where free water stands in the soil for considerable periods, will result in the formation of a so-called gray layer in the upper subsoil. Such locations are entirely unsuited for orchard purposes.

The topography of the land and the texture of the soil furnish indications of drainage conditions. The combination of a flat surface and a heavy texture of the soil, especially where clay is present in the subsoil, is distinctly unfavorable for orchard purposes. The best way to examine a soil for orchard purposes is to take borings to a depth of four feet from each acre of the field. Each boring should be carefully examined for drainage indications. A soil that is naturally well drained should be selected. Choosing a location which requires ditches or tile drains would seem unwise, especially with the present prices of land and fruit. This practice might be justified where there are certain low spots in an otherwise good location.

The extension of the route is granted on condition that no local passengers be carried on the extension and there is also a restriction against the carrying of eastbound passengers on the Glasco Turnpike who desire through transportation to Saugerties or Kingston. These restrictions are to protect other bus companies operating in this vicinity.

The extension is only one mile in length and it can be operated without additional buses or time because the bus now used starts from Glasco and returns there. It will convert non-revenue miles into revenue miles.

There was evidence that there is need for the extension and prospective patronage sufficient to justify its operation. Three round trips are to be operated daily. Two of the trips are in connection with carrying school children under a contract for that transportation and the mid-day trips each week day are to be adjusted to make reasonable connection with the buses operated by Klemm and Huber at Pleasant Valley Inn.

Mayor Eugene B. Carey announced Wednesday that he had completed arrangements for a special schedule of the Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry Thursday night. The ferry will leave Kingston at 9:45 p. m. after the dinner of the New York State Horticultural Society at the Governor Clinton Hotel. This special trip will enable members and friends on the east side of the river to reach their homes without delay, touring by way of Highland and Poughkeepsie.

Miss Alice Pieper Not in Accident

Miss Alice Pieper of Pine street, owner of the car that broke through a heavy guard rail and went over an embankment on the Fairview road Sunday, was not one of the party riding in the car at the time of the accident, she informed The Freeman today, saying the car had been borrowed by her brother without her permission.

Rabbi Eppstein Called to Scranton

Rabbi Victor Eppstein of Temple Emanuel has been called to the ministry of the Madison Avenue Temple, Scranton, Penn., and at a meeting of the board of Temple Emanuel last night was released by the local congregation. Rabbi Eppstein will occupy the pulpit of Temple Emanuel for the last time this Friday at 8 p. m., when he will deliver his sermon of farewell. The public is cordially welcome.

At the same meeting the board of Temple Emanuel unanimously elected Rabbi Herbert Bloom, formerly of Albuquerque, N. M., who has been holding a research fellowship at Columbia University. Rabbi Bloom will begin his duties with the Temple February 1.

CHIEF BLACKBIRD COMING TO JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER

Chief Blackbird, a Chippewa Indian, will make his appearance in the Jewish Community Center on lower Broadway Monday evening, January 30, at 7 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend this program, which promises to be interesting and educational.

Chief Blackbird, in his lecture recitals before the various schools and clubs, brings to the children as well as to the adults, a vastly different picture of the American Indian than the one usually presented by the "movies" and lurid descriptions of the Indians of pre-Revolutionary times. He feels that it is unfortunate and a serious handicap for his people to have in their present day and generation, to be always presented, especially to the juvenile audience, in the role of the savage. This he contends is serving to keep in the fear complex in the minds of the children who witness many of these western pictures. He will point out the better qualities of the Indians, as expressed in their arts and handicrafts, legends and music and ceremonial dancing.

CAPITOL TO KEEP EYE ON WADSWORTH WHEN HE RETURNS

Washington—Of all that group of new congressmen coming to the house on March 4, none perhaps figures so prominently in political speculation of the future as does James W. Wadsworth of New York. Coming back from political retirement as he has, dopesters were quick to see in his return possible ambitions looking toward the White House itself four years hence. That he'll be very much in the picture up until the next Republican nominating convention is over seems certain.

Despite Wadsworth's return to congress as a freshman member of the house, that name long has been familiar on congressional rosters. The last time it appeared on the house roll was in the 59th congress back in 1907 when his father sat there.

And men who have figured large in the political history of the country sat in the house of that congress. Some of them continue to play important roles.

AGRICULTURE AND MARKETS READY TO TAKE SLASH

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 26 (P).—The state department of agriculture and markets is prepared to accept a slash of more than 10 per cent in its appropriations for 1933, Commissioner Charles H. Baldwin said today.

He said the tentative budget which he submitted to Governor Lehman called for $4,771,450 as compared to $5,329,678 for last year, a reduction of $558,228.

Commissioner Baldwin's department was one of the five state departments included in the report of the Hewitt economy investigating committee laid before the legislature yesterday. The committee's recommended reduction of $400,000 in the appropriations for agriculture and markets is considerably below the cut asked by Commissioner Baldwin.

PATIENTS LEAVE BEDS WHEN FIRE THREATENS HOSPITAL

Tupper Lake, N. Y., Jan. 26 (P).—Two hundred patients were forced to leave their beds in the Veterans' Administration Hospital here last night when fire of undetermined origin threatened to destroy the building. Six patients had to be carried down ladders by firemen.

Gerald Mackey, a fireman, suffered a broken leg when a ladder buckled, hurling him to the ground. The fire was confined chiefly to the long corridor, but smoke filled the building and threatened to drive out all the 425 patients. Damage was estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

The patients, who were forced to leave the building, were back in their quarters after staying outside several hours.

ANOTHER RACKET

A new racket develops, and of all places—in archaeology! It isn't the archaeologists themselves who are guilty. They are honorable as well as scholarly men. But their workmen get them into trouble.

An interesting case in point is found in the excavations of Sodom and Gomorrah, which were destroyed by fire and brimstone from heaven three or four thousand years ago. That catastrophe was apparently a historic fact, though interpreted by prosaic scientists as a volcanic eruption, whose ashes still cover the ruins.

The savants to whom relics are submitted from the excavations on the sites of those wicked cities have been trying for a year or two to decipher strange inscriptions on pottery dug up by laborers. They hoped to discover the language of the old Sodomites, but made no headway. Finally it develops that the workmen themselves have been scratching meaningless symbols on bits of pottery, burying them and then digging them up with a flourish. The motive for such imposture is found in the fact that the workmen are paid a bonus for every relic they turn up.

Similar deception has been known in this country, though the motive here has usually been that of the practical joker having a little quiet fun. With archaeology growing into a regular business and spreading everywhere, this sort of thing will have to be guarded against from now on wherever excavation work is done.

TIME HEALS

Contemporary Englishmen and Americans think no one can tell them much about depressions. No generation before them ever wrestled with such seemingly hopeless problems. Maybe so. But maybe not so. The first half of the nineteenth century presented a desperate appearance to human eyes. An Englishman has planned the following prophecies from his own nation's leaders of that day:

William Pitt: "There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair."

Wilberforce: "I dare not marry, the future is so dark and unsettled."

Lord Grey: "Everything is tending to a convulsion."

Disraeli: "In industry, commerce and agriculture there is no hope."

The Duke of Wellington, on the eve of his death, thanked God he would be spared from seeing the consumption of ruin that is gathering around us."

Lord Shaftesbury: "Nothing can save us from shipwreck."

Similar despairing views of the situation have been collected from many speeches and writings of other times on our side of the Atlantic. There is hope for the future in those gloomy echoes of the past. What time has done before in curing human ills, time may do again. If human intelligence and good will could be made to cooperate with time, the cure might come sooner and last longer.

VITAMINS AND FINGER NAILS

New facts are being discovered all the time regarding the strange substances known as vitamins, contained in some kinds of food and missing in others, and all essential in some way to human growth and health. One of the most surprising of these facts has to do with the familiar habit, rather common in children and sometimes practiced by adults, known as "nail-biting."

French physicians treating a patient suffering from alcoholic nervousness, who happened to be a nail-biter, found that after he had been getting plenty of vitamins B and D, he stopped biting his nails. They tried the same vitamins on nail-biting children, with the same result. It may be that the vitamins, or their equivalents, exist in the nails. Whether this is so or not, when the vitamins get plenty of the essential vitamins in the form of medicine or food, they let their tails alone.

So here is practical help for worrying mothers. Any doctor can tell what foods or medicines to use in providing the vitamins mentioned. Vitamin D, by the way, is said to be valuable also in preventing that still greater menace to children, tooth decay.

SIMPLE DIET AND TEETH

Newspapers, magazines, street car signs, billboards, and the radio all tell us about the great merits of various toothpastes, powders, mouth washes, and special types of tooth brushes.

I believe that this is all worthy of our consideration, because it is little portions of the food left on the teeth that attacks the hard enamel covering of the teeth. Removal of this food is necessary to preserve the enamel.

This cleaning of the teeth is important, but it is only half the story. You wash or brush your teeth to protect them, but what is the use of protecting something that isn't worth saving?

I refer to teeth that have infection in them that is spreading danger—heart, disease and rheumatism—throughout the body. If your dentist by testing your teeth and an examination by the X-ray, advises that teeth, however healthy in appearance, should be removed don't delay but get rid of them.

Very often the individual waits until he feels a twinge of rheumatism and then he decides to have the teeth removed. By the time rheumatism makes itself felt the trouble has likely been developing for many months, even years.

The big point that is now known but which was unknown when many of us were children, is that the proper diet will build strong teeth and prevent decay, and instead of man becoming a toothless mortal, a little thought will enable him to have the strong healthy teeth of his ancestors.

Dr. Weston Price, Cleveland, the celebrated research worker in dentistry, carried out extensive researches on the effects of various diets in the prevention of tooth decay and states that by feeding 40 selected children in Cleveland with a specially prepared diet, stopped dental decay in everyone of them. The food which he fed them consisted of milk, whole grain bread with high vitamin butter, and a beef stock soup in which there were plenty of vegetables.

Within a short time all signs of an increase in tooth decay in the children had ceased and their whole physique had improved enormously.

This diet should not be difficult for mothers to obtain and prepare and should mean much to the health and appearance of their children.

Buying Barbara

By John Clark-Adams, Author of "The Last Days"

"You are Farrell Armistage. I know." The sound of the clear, soft voice speaking through that salty dusk, sent the blood to his temples. Roughly, he took control of himself. There was so much to be said and so much not to keep her long on this spray-swept shore. He noticed that she had a tweed coat on, not very heavy.

"Turn your collar up," he said. "I'm not cold. I came down here because I wanted to feel the wind and the spray before I go away from the west country. I'm starting work in London tomorrow."

"You are so elusive," he said, his voice strange to his ears. "How do you manage to be here by the sea when you live neither in Toxeter nor Kings Mallard?"

"But don't you know I'm staying with Mr. Frere at Upper Mallard?" Armistage laughed. At the old, well-loved vicarage, the one place he had not thought of.

"I didn't realize you and the vicar were such friends," he said. "I never imagined you'd be there."

"We aren't, though I've known him all my life. In a way, you see, when I'd done the alterations at South-the-Water and finished the Toxeter house and sold it, I had no home. And then I met Mr. Frere in Toxeter and he said I must come and stay at the vicarage in his pond."

"I was afraid I should be a nuisance to him but he said I shouldn't, so long as I didn't make him drink tea. So I'm always out for tea. But, Farrell—"

"Barbara?"

"If the vicar didn't tell you I was down here by the sea, how could you possibly have known?"

"I shall not tell you that until I am quite certain that you will believe me."

He thought that the color swept her face but the moonlight was treacherous. The end of her scarf, touched his shoulder. He held it gently.

"You didn't marry Mark," he said very low.

"You didn't cheat," she said on a quick, timid breath. "I've been trying to find courage to apologize for accusing you of it, but I simply couldn't write. And I thought it might be easier when I met you."

"It was Poole you heard commenting on Lady," he said after a silence. "To Molloughlin, the cartoonist. Apparently Lella Cans told Lady that you were downstairs, but went home directly afterwards."

When I heard that you had come to my house," his voice thickened, "alone, late at night, and had not received the barest sign of common hospitality, you, who ought to have been carried over the threshold."

He checked himself as she took a startled step backwards.

"But it wasn't anybody's fault," she protested, "except Mark's. No harm was done."

"No harm. Since you didn't marry Mark, I had no means of finding out whether you and he were married for some days."

"But why not? Mark would have told you that, surely?"

"Mark," he said slowly, "had gone to a hospital at three o'clock on that same day that you wrote to me. Sir Robert Philby was there. I'd brought him down from Scotland by easy stages. Just got him there in comfortable time. He's old, you see, and not too strong."

"Philby, the bone-setter?"

"Yes. He had a look at Mark and said he thought he could do something. So Mark was put under an anesthetic there and then and Sir Robert rearranged most of his spine."

"Mark—Mark didn't tell me there was any question of such a thing!"

"In three months he'll be allowed to move, Barbara. And Sir Robert says that within the year, if all goes well, he'll be walking without a crutch; at most, with a slight limp."

The sound of the incoming tide crept between them.

"Come, let's walk back to the car. We can't stay here; it's getting late and cold."

He came nearer, standing between her and the freshening wind. "Did you say—" the spoke carefully, as though repeating a message—"that, on the day after Mark gave that party, he went into a hospital, at about three o'clock in the afternoon, and—and was cured of his lameness?"

"Who—who is it?" And then, as she shamed of the evasion—

Clarence E. Willard, the man who grows at will, has spent about 30 years increasing and decreasing his height for the amusement and sometimes amazement of his friends and audiences. WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Jan. 25.—There was a large turnout of members, also several visitors at the Saturday night session of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge. It was the first presiding by the newly installed officers and brought high commendation from all present.

A social program followed the business session, featuring hotly contested pinocle and euchre games. At the meeting action was taken favoring the purchase of a player piano, the cost to be shared by the Olive Rebekahs.

The mild weather combined with the social enchantment of West Shokan brought from the Metropolitan district a group of very socially prominent and well known summer residents for a week-end visit. Numbered in the group were the Doolay sisters, Helen, Katherine and Anna, also their brother, Edward Doolay, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loxton, Miss Helen Lohr, Edward Loxton and Andrew Toomey. On Saturday evening the visiting group, also the following notables, were entertained as guests of Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis of Main street: Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Claude Bell of North Main street, and the newlyweds, State Trooper and Mrs. Joseph P. Nolan of Phoenixia.

The merry New Yorkers were obliged to make their home trip Sunday afternoon through the day's teasing rain.

The Olive Rebekah degree team resumed practice Monday evening for the first since the greatly lamented death of the chaplain of the lodge, Mrs. Irma Elmendorf. The Rebekah's present plans are to hold the postponed initiation and reception at the time of the first Thursday meeting in February.

On Friday evening of this week the members of the Olive town branch will meet for their once a month routine session. Due to the growing needs of a public health nurse it is reported that the matter will be brought up for consideration at this time, and that favorable action in regard to an appointment may be forthcoming. Throughout the prevailing grip and its epidemic Miss Lydia Scott of Shokan, who is a St. Luke's graduate and former superintendent of nurses there, has acted in an unofficial capacity among the many cases cropping out on the east side.

The town of Olive shared liberally in the recent distribution of a carload of government flour assigned for Ulster county. Local needs in this free distribution should be well provided for as a half ton in 24 pound sacks is available at the Main street store of Judge Lester S. Davis.

A sense of general satisfaction is felt in the re-appointment of Claude Bell as deputy sheriff by Sheriff John H. Saxe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall and son, Harry, of Olive Bridge, enjoyed a Sunday night dinner at the home of Mr. Marshall's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Marshall, of Olive Bridge. During the evening they visited Mrs. Florence Donohoe, who is ill. She is under the care of Dr. Voss and is rapidly improving.

Her condition is such that she expects to return home soon.

Mrs. Mary Moore and daughter, Mrs. Genevieve McLennan, of Samsonville were callers on Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

of Dr. Henry L. Bibby of Kingston. It had an ulcer in one ear which necessitated opening the ear drum. Both father and child will be quarantined for the usual 30 days.

Mrs. Chester Lyons and one of her small daughters have been ill for a few days with grip.

Now that Town Clerk John Marshall of Olive Bridge has completed his outside painting, he is occupied varnishing the interior of his home. Mrs. Markle has assumed the duties of mail carrier.

High school pupils are decidedly well occupied this week with their Regents' examinations.

The usual weekly Ladies' Aid quilting and luncheon will take place in the church on Wednesday. A large turnout of the members and several always welcome visitors are expected.

Anyone wishing to obtain books from the Bushkill School Library will find a fine variety to choose from. Library hours are from 12 to 1 and from 3:30 to 4 o'clock on any school day. Miss Hazel Bell, the teacher, has charge of the library.

Certainly the weather bears unmistakable spring tendencies. Farmers could plow quite as readily as last fall should the winter routine permit such additional activities.

On Tuesday evening a prominent delegation of the members of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge headed by Past District Deputies Arthur E. Trowbridge and Virgil C. Gordon visited William H. Raymond Lodge in Saugerties.

Breaks Her Hip In Fall

Pine Hill, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Charles Persons had the misfortune to break her hip late Monday afternoon. It is thought that she may have had a dizzy spell and fell in such a manner as to break her hip. This is quite a serious accident for a woman 74 years of age. Dr. Deator of Fleischmanns was called and he had her removed to Benedictine Hospital in Kingston.

Rensselaer Professor Dead

Troy, N. Y., Jan. 26 (AP).—Professor William Listerhead Robb, 72, head of the Department of Electrical Engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute since 1907, died at 2 a. m. today in the Samaritan Hospital where he was taken yesterday suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Conrad Christensen of Olive Bridge is aiding the local unemployment situation by giving work to a group of workmen in the erection of the new bungalow being rushed to completion for the residence of Charles Jansen and family, located at the bend of the road on the rise between the Kuyk Hill, near the Marblow line. Mr. Jansen recently disposed of his farm property on the Krumville road to city parties. It is being whispered about that Mr. and Mrs. Jansen will be due to a real old fashioned home warming upon their getting re-located. Those engaged in the work are Mr. Christensen, Clyde Davis and William Beebe, and John Davis of Krumville and Lester Alexander of Ashokan.

Miss Camilla Davis, student at Fifth Avenue Hospital, New York city, spent Sunday with her parents, former Supervisor and Mrs. Lester B. Davis, of Olive Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gray, well known Olive Bridge store proprietors, visited Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Katie Davis, of Krumville.

The Rev. Mr. Booth, pastor of the Tongare M. E. church, is spending the week with his wife and son in New York city.

Peter R. Crawford, Jr., genial proprietor of the Olive Bridge Garage, is kept very busy.

Millard Bell and small baby of Ashokan are recovering from scarlet fever. The baby is under the care of Dr. Voss and is rapidly improving.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

If You Are Not Sixteen,
But Sixty

New York—It is always wise to dress simply, but when one is extra-size it is not only wise but necessary in order to look anywhere near right. The days when all large sizes were in old-lady models are happily passing. Big women have at last successfully lifted up their voices against this injustice, and at last the efficient stereotyped has been broken down and has been replaced by the efficient models in which they need not look like their own grandmothers.

Naturally, most fashions are designed for the young and fair to look upon. But this, happily, does not mean that they cannot be modified to suit the women who are not aspirants in a beauty contest.

The dress sketched, for instance, is not an "old" model. It has several engaging details and is constructed on straight lines to be flattering to women whose waistlines are of the disappearing variety. Belts, no matter where they are placed, are not especially kind to large women. They are better omitted or at least interrupted.

It's the straight up and down lines, not the horizontal ones, that need emphasis. Broad shoulders, exaggerated puff sleeves and trimmings that run around instead of up and down, are to be avoided. Fortunately it is not difficult to do so at the moment.

While the built-up bodice may not be very kindly to the matronly type, it is not impossible if care is taken in fitting the neck and in softening it. Scarf collars, capable of several adjustments, are not amiss.

The day is also past when the world expected large women to dress in dark colors, or insisted that older women should wear nothing but black and gray and navy, all shades which are most difficult for them to wear. A young woman may risk black, but an older woman finds black unfriendly, unless she has exceptionally brilliant coloring, or unless she adds white or color to the black.

An interesting fashion adapted to specialized sizes is illustrated above, showing neckline which is convertible. The partial belt tying in soft bow at one side is another feasible point for a dress for the large figure. This model is developed in beige cotton crepe and trimmed with fine rows of shirred lace.

Among the important women's types is the hat from Rehoux called "The Fez." This is another version of the drum, only with deeper and more tapering cut worked out in the crispest type, crease as the semi-soft felt.

A nice point in relation to chignons is that they offer a semi-stiff of the drum, only with deeper and more tapering cut worked out in the crispest type, crease as the semi-soft felt.

"How economical it is!" says Mrs. E. H. Brown of Syracuse

As a constant user of Rinso I can't praise it too much. My clothes are snowy white with no work or effort on my part—and positively no scrubbing. And of six for two weeks. Here's the exact record I kept:

1 bedspread
2 dresser scarfs
6 dollies
12 face cloths
12 napkins
12 pillow cases
4 sheets
4 table-cloths
16 towels
12 dish towels
30 handkerchiefs
8 children's dresses
6 children's nightclothes
32 pairs children's stockings
6 pieces children's underwear
6 pairs pajamas

You, too, will find Rinso a very economical soap to use. A little gives a lot of thick, long-lasting suds. Great in washers. Fine for dishwashing and all cleaning, too—and hands never get rough and red.

KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK

SCHOOL NO. 8 GRADUATING CLASS ENJOYS BANQUET

The January 1933, graduation class of School No. 8, together with parents and friends, enjoyed a banquet at the Hotel Taff, Thursday evening, January 19.

Between courses of a delicious and most enjoyable entertainment was the singing of Paul Jones and his associates.

Following the dinner Alfred W. Lefebvre, class president, on behalf of the class, thanked Principal Garrison and the teachers present for their untiring patience and efforts in piloting the class to successful completion of their grammar school days, also the banquet committee composed of mothers of the graduating class for making possible the wonderful evening that was enjoyed by all.

Principal Garrison then presented the speaker of the evening, B. C. Van Ingen, superintendent of schools, who in his usual quiet manner, gave a very inspiring talk.

The guests of honor were the graduating class, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Van Ingen, Principal and Mrs. J. Garrison, Miss Nellie Abernethy and Miss Alice Heston.

Horticulturalists Discuss Farm Credit

It is based on the rate at which the bank is able to dispose of its loans to the farming public. The present rate on new loans of the bank is 5 1/2 per cent.

In a period such as the past two years when the prices of farm commodities were below those of previous years, it is to be expected that some farmers would experience difficulty in meeting their obligations. In 1927 the Federal Land Bank of Springfield received 95 per cent of all maturing installments, including interest and principal. In view of conditions the farmer borrowers representing approximately $50,000,000 in mortgage loans should be commended. With the present low prices for farm commodities and almost total absence of local credit in many rural communities, farmers are short of cash and some need time to work out of their difficulties. The bank considers each case individually. This is accomplished by meeting the delinquent borrower and determining through a personal interview his financial condition, his income, and his prospects of overcoming his troubles. It is rare to find a man who does not show a willingness to meet his obligations to the bank. The farmer who is making an honest effort and who is not hopelessly burdened with debt is given such extension of time as the facts justify. He has had, and will continue to have, the bank's help to gradually work out of his difficulties.

"We find that farmers who have followed a safe course and have been farming for a living are getting along without serious difficulties even now. Farmers now on farm should stay there. If they are out of debt, they should aim to stay in that happy condition; if they are in debt, they should plan and work to save until the way ahead clears up. Payments necessary to retain possession of the farm home should be made ahead of payments on almost all other obligations. No chance should be taken on losing the farm home. This bank believes and has confidence in the farmers whom it has helped to finance and will do everything in its power to work with them and help them make a living and preserve their homes. To do this we must have their fullest cooperation.

"There comes a time, of course, in some situations when the holder of a mortgage can do nothing else but foreclose—there are even cases where it is the greatest kindness to close out other debts and give a man a new start. Both the association and the bank have a real task to distinguish between those farmers who can pay but will not and those who cannot and are really entitled to consideration."

Discussing the subject of foreclosures and sales of farms, the speaker said: "With about 17,000 loans outstanding, during the year the bank has taken over 203 pieces of property, one-fourth of which have arisen out of cancelled contracts on farms previously acquired. During this same time the bank has sold 195 properties. In these sales the bank has realized 88 per cent of its investment, as compared with 82 per cent on the sales made during the same period last year. The bank endeavors to place these properties in the hands of competent farmers whenever the farm is of a character that offers opportunity for a living. Some farms have been divided and sold to adjoining neighbors, a few have been sold for summer homes, and a very few for reforestation purposes."

"Twenty-one per cent of the farms acquired were vacant, there were others where the buildings were in a dilapidated condition and the land so badly misused that it was impossible for a family to make a living therefrom. Where conditions justified, the bank has made repairs and has expended $62,304.15 in putting these properties into better condition so that they may again serve as homes."

President Thomson stated that during the past 12 months the bank has received inquiries from 9,231 people who wanted to buy farms, and commented: "This returning to the land is largely by men and women who went from farms to the towns and cities during the boom period in the past ten years. At the present moment they have a deeper appreciation of the mistake which was made in leaving the country and a longing to return. People in the cities, as well as in the country, have in the last year been awakened to a realization of the fact that they are engaged in that elemental struggle for food and shelter and covering for their bodies in which most of the peoples of the world are always engaged."

The First Federal Land Bank, served by the Bank of Springfield, Mass., is made up of the six New England states, New York and New Jersey. This territory has over 20 per cent of the population of the entire United States. One person in 17 is engaged in agriculture as compared with one in three for the rest of the United States. Of the total bank resources of the country 46 per cent are in this district and the average farm dwelling is valued at $2,449 as compared with $1,141 for the rest of the country.

Mr. Faulkner's address dealt with the organization and workings of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, with principal office at Albany, created by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1932. The corporation was formed to supply farm credit to the extent that local banks could not furnish it, but to no greater degree and on a similar basis of credit, only that it may be able to grant longer credit or accept a different type of collateral.

Its loans must be secured by personal property, such as crops, livestock and equipment. The proceeds are to be applied to current purposes, such as crop production, harvesting, marketing, payment of current interest, taxes and accounts payable. It can also finance the breeding, fattening and marketing of livestock, as well as agricultural projects.

Crop loans from the corporation are not limited in amount, but it will be required that the loans be secured in part by other property. The proceeds of the loan will be disbursed in installments according to the needs of the borrower. They will mature with the harvesting of the crop in order that they will be repaid out of the proceeds of the crop.

E. G. COWPER
E. G. Cowper, of Newfane, newly elected president, who is presiding over the sessions of the New York State Horticultural Society.

Harvesting loans supply funds for labor, containers and such to harvest the crop and put it in condition for sale. Like the crop loans, the crop itself will be mortgaged as part security. These loans will mature after the time of harvest.

Warehouse and marketing loans are made against the collateral value of the commodity itself when represented by warehouse receipts. These loans will mature before the commodity has deteriorated. We will prefer to have periodical market quotations where the produce is marketed gradually. There will be no objection to sale of the produce before maturity of the loan.

Barnyard loans may serve many purposes. Most common, among requests received now, are those to meet current taxes or interest on farm mortgages. Some farmers have obligations incurred in last year's production which are being pressed by creditors. These we hope to assist with if the farmer has sufficient equipment and livestock to secure such a loan. These loans should be amortized monthly.

Poultrymen may receive loans, but because of the hazards to which the industry is subject, the experienced poultry raiser is preferred. The loan will be made against the collateral value of the chickens and such other personal property as is adequate for security.

Dairy loans are made to dairymen for the purpose of supplying feed for livestock and replenishing herds. Loans will not be made to retailers of milk, except that they also be producers and derive the larger portion of their feed from their own farms. It is expected that dairy loans will be amortized by assignment of a portion of the proceeds of the milk.

Two points were emphasized—All loans must be fully and adequately secured by livestock, equipment or crops; the proceeds of loans may be devoted only to the production of livestock or for an agricultural purpose.

County committees are being appointed, similar to those which served in connection with crop loans in 1932. Where there are such committees it is expected that the borrower will prepare his application and turn it over to the committee for consideration.

The character of the borrower, his ability as a farmer and his general reputation as a business man will be taken into consideration in granting loans.

Prof. George H. Rea of the Department of Agriculture, well known to Ulster county farmers, especially those interested in beekeeping and always an interesting speaker, talked on the subject of keeping bees in the orchard as a help to pollination.

Prof. Rea spoke of the necessity of giving bees proper care and said that a vast majority of the thousands of colonies of bees kept in orchards were neglected. The result was weak colonies which could not function properly when needed for pollinating the fruit blossoms.

Colonies that were small and weak were not of much use in the orchard. As to the so-called "orchard packages," he was not recommending them particularly.

A "gentle" strain of bees should be procured and the speaker recommended the Italian strain. Good sized hives, that would hold 50 or 60 pounds of honey for over winter should be used and they should be protected in winter, as honey bees do not naturally belong here, and our winters are hard on them.

As to the number of colonies required for an orchard, one to every two or three acres would be sufficient if the colonies were large and strong. Bees moved to an orchard during blossoming time will return to their old location unless they are moved a distance of several miles.

The speaker said that he had but little data on the effect of spray solutions, but that solutions containing arsenic would cause much damage, especially where dust was used, as the bees would often carry the dust back to the hive.

Prof. Rea spoke of the remarkable growth made by the young bees and said that a human baby growing in the same proportion would attain a weight of approximately five and a half tons in six days.

The address by Prof. L. H. MacDaniels of the College of Agriculture on the subject of pollination was listened to with interest. He showed by charts the effect of planting with stands of certain apples which were practically self-fertile other varieties which would furnish the proper pollination and gave the proper varieties to furnish the desired results in different cases. Thus the Cortland apple, practically self-fertile, gave the best results when a certain number of Ben Davis trees were scattered through the orchard. In old orchards this result could be secured by grafting the proper varieties in some of the trees.

Spraying with sulphur at the wrong time when trees are in blossom will affect the set of fruit. The same is tied up with the blossoms in the weather is bad at the time trees are in blossom bees will remain in their hives. As to the weather, Prof. MacDaniels said that over a 50 year change. He said that during the past three years pollination in orchards had not been much of a problem, but that did not mean that there would not again come seasons when it would.

He warned his hearers not to ignore the problem of pollination when setting out new orchards, but to see that there was a proper choice of varieties. Among popular varieties which need pollination in order to produce a crop are the McIntosh and the Northern Spy.

The final address of the day was given by C. P. Norgard, assistant commissioner of agriculture and markets. Mr. Norgard talked of the necessity for proper grading of apples and of the need of advertising.

He told of the work being done by the department on promotional lines, including hundreds of newspaper articles and weekly radio talks.

The extensive publicity work done by the California fruit growers during the past five years was referred to and the commissioner called attention to the fact that in some cases the schools were being used to advertise California products.

The speaker said that there was a demand for New York state apples, of uniform size and color. One large chain store had asked for New York apples that met these requirements, to sell in competition with western apples. They were anxious to use New York state apples if they could get them. He told of one case where green western apples sold ahead of really fine New York state McIntosh apples, because the western apples were uniform in size and color.

The commissioner said that New York state growers could take and hold a large share of the fancy apple trade if they would pay more attention to the matter of grading and pack fruit that was uniform in size and color.

One of the most popular features of the sessions is the question box in charge of B. D. VanBuren. A half hour is given at the beginning and at the close of each session, when members may call for answers to any of a list of 139 questions given in the printed programs. These questions have been sent in by members of the society and cover about every phase of horticulture activity.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Jan. 26—Albert Goss was motoring with George Ghean on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosley Hoffman and son, George, motored with Benjie Van Wagonen and Mrs. John Van Wagonen to Troy on Sunday, where they spent the day with Oscar Van Wagonen, who is attending R. P. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Whipple and son, Thomas, of Morris Glen Farm, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lewis, on Sunday.

Mr. Post, a New Brunswick student, had charge of the service in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning. It was a rainy day and there were not many present. Services will be held the coming Sunday at the usual hours. Clarence Howard will have charge of the service.

The Ladies' Missionary meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Oscar Van Wagonen on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mary Beach and Miss Cynthia Van Wagonen called at the home of Mrs. George Grant and Mrs. Mary Krom on Wednesday afternoon.

As the meters were read in the village on Tuesday, the next light bills will soon be out.

Mrs. Watson, who came up from Jersey to attend the funeral of her cousin, Mrs. Will Hays, returned home on Thursday. On Tuesday afternoon she called at the home of Mrs. Mary C. Van Wagonen and on Mrs. Preston Church.

Mrs. Elizabeth Alsdorf, who rented rooms for a number of years in the old stone house now owned by Lambert Brohead, moved to The Clove this week, where she will take rooms over the garage of her nephew, Victor G. Parcell.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goss left for the city on Tuesday morning, where Mrs. Goss will be under the doctor's care.

Allan Smith, who recently underwent an operation, and who with his wife is spending some time with his sister, Mrs. Mary Delamater, is doing nicely.

The Young People's Society, composed of the youth of both High Falls and Allgerville, held a meeting in the Reformed Church on Sunday night.

The women will give a roast pork supper on Tuesday evening, January 31. Supper will be served at 6:30 and until all are served. The menu is as follows: Soup, roast pork, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, pickles, jelly, cabbage salad, apple sauce, cake, coffee and ice cream. There is also to be a good speaker, who will address the gathering. Everyone is most cordially invited to attend and have a good supper, a good time, hear a good speaker and help make this a worthwhile event, a success both socially and financially.

Roscoe Schoonmaker was a recent caller at the home of John H. Ayers. A number of men from this place are being employed on the road for part-time work.

The High Falls Public School was not in regular session this week as the regents examinations were held there. A number of out-of-town pupils came down to attend.

Charles LaPolt is helping out at the store of W. L. Krom this week, as he is free for the week. He attends Kingston High, but has no exams until June.

The weather the first part of the week was just like spring and the thermometer ran way up.

There was a very large number present at the funeral service of Mrs. W. H. Hayes held in the Reformed Church on Saturday afternoon. Clarence Howard came up to hold the service, but was not able to stay and preach on Sunday morning. The people all extend their heartfelt sympathy to the family and also to the family of Saul Courtyman.

The family of Henry Wells has severe colds. Dr. Rymph has been in attendance.

On Saturday afternoon of the past week the new fire engine was given a trial and it proved to be very efficient. So, in case of fire, it will stand in good.

Millard Coan was in the place recently.

The lot, formerly owned by Preston Church up along the Mohawk road and bought by Alonzo Hendricks a few years ago, has undergone a great change. There are now a number of bungalows where there was at first just a hen house. There are the bungalows of Lillie Hendricks, Alonzo Hendricks, Hasbrouck Davis, the garage of Turners, which they are occupying until they put up a bungalow in the spring, and the bungalow of Blakely which is now going up. As one passes up the Mohawk road and views this lot, it is quite a settlement. It is a fine location and it commands a wonderful view. It is located along a good road and of near access to the village.

There are still quite a few cases of severe colds in this vicinity.

 Returns from 45 out of 153 dis-

Sergeant Phinney Speaker At Club

The Kingston Triangle Club enjoyed another largely attended meeting Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C.
 A. which proved to be extremely interesting.

After enjoying a fine chicken dinner topped off with delicious apple pie prepared by Mrs. Bulley and served by Mrs. Warren F. Smith and Miss Phyllis Eastman the members enjoyed singing their old favorites
 under the leadership of General Secretary Clarence S. Schoenmaker with Dan Bittner at the piano.

President Fred Van Deusen requested that each member telephone the Y. M. C. A. not later than Friday stating how many tickets they had disposed of for the turkey dinner which the Ladies' auxiliary will serve Tuesday evening. The members will meet at the usual hour, 8:30, and march upstairs in a body
 where a special table will be reserved for them. After the dinner their regular meeting will be held in a room downstairs at which time many important matters will be brought up.

The meeting was then turned over to Dr. Julian I. Gifford, chairman of the program committee, who introduced as speaker of the evening Sergeant Charles Phinney of the local police department who gave one of the finest and most instructive addresses that the club has had the pleasure of hearing in some time.
 Sergeant Phinney spoke on a phase of the police work which is not generally known to the average citizen and which was not only intensely interesting but highly instructive as well. So few people understand or know about the numerous and varied problems that our police department has to contend with, the difficulties that have to be solved, makes these addresses which Sergeant Phinney has been delivering before various clubs of our city of immeasurable value in deepening the appreciation of the efficient police department which Kingston is fortunate in having.

Auto Damaged by Fire, Garage Saved

About 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Mrs. W. A. Hoffman went to the garage at the rear of 147 Henry street, corner of Oak street, to back a Graham-Page car out. She failed to get it started and as she got out
 she noticed a fire under the floorboards. She summoned workmen who were repairing a furnace in the cellar of the house at 147 Henry street, formerly the Dr. Daniel Connelly property, and when they were unable to move the car from the garage or extinguish the fire a still alarm was sent in. On arrival the firemen turned in an alarm from box 75 and additional apparatus responded.
 The car was very badly damaged
 but the firemen saved the garage,
 which is a four-car structure.
 At the time of the sounding of the alarm Chief Murphy was attending court as a witness. He was summoned from court to direct the activities of the firemen. Shortly after he left the court room he was called to testify, but in his absence another witness was substituted.

The Flirtation
Joe Sam once had a girl named Miss Prosperity.
Three years ago they parted,
a break-up sad to see.

Joe Sam has missed her badly.
He tried hard to beguile
her back, and now she sends him
the faintest little smile.

Man—And did he have the dentist
take an X-ray of his wife's jaw?
Neighbor—He tried to, but all
they could get was a moving picture.

More than one boy who, a few years ago, vowed to go to the ends of the earth, for a girl, when he proposed, is now having trouble to make his meet.

Our idea of an affluent citizen
today is the fellow who can save a little money by paying his taxes in advance.

Bill—So you loved and lost, eh?
old chap?
Sam—On the contrary, I came out
a winner.

Bill—How was that?
Sam—She returned my presents and accidentally put in some of another fellow's.

Good Will... The minute I abuse
it, I lose it... It has neither height, nor length, nor breadth, nor width, and yet it is the one indispensable element in the foundation of any business.

Alma—Where did you get that umbrella?
Carl—It was a gift from sister.

Alma—But you told me you didn't have any sisters.

Carl—I know; but that's what's aggravated on the handle.

Don't you think it would profit certain European nations to stop arguing about who caused the last war and check up on those countries that are likely to cause the next one?

Among labor saving devices the waste basket ranks very high.

We wouldn't mind wealth being so unevenly distributed, if every girl
only had her share of pretty clothes,
good looks and boy friends.

Man—My wife sure is thrifty. She made me a necktie out of an old dress of her's the other day.

Friend—That's nothing. My wife made herself a dress out of one of the ties that was given me Christmas.

The answer to the old question:
"What is the world coming to?" now appears to be that it is slowly coming to.

You know nothing of tomorrow,
why speculate on what it may hold for you... Today is here and what it holds for you, you alone can seek and find... You alone can make or mar today... YOU ALONE.

Correct this sentence: "I feel that I have been useless," said the congressman. "so I am returning my salary and all allowances."

And it sometimes happens that after a man has made his mark he acquires a wife who makes him too
it.

ENCORES... How a vegetarian can pass up fried chicken is more than most of us can understand...
Some women speak of their husbands as a "theory" because they so seldom work... Common sense is usually safer than fads, however brilliant and attractive the latter may seem... When looking at different sides of a question, don't forget the inside... There is a great difference between being enlightened and being all lit up... A singing heart makes things hum... Nothing like the sight of an old flame to make a girl's face light up... Sometimes the bigger a boy's heart, the more girls he tries to squeeze into it...

BOMB FOUND IN BRITISH
HEADQUARTERS IN CAIRO

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 26 (AP)—A bomb was discovered this morning
in the British General headquarters here.

Military policemen discovered the bomb on a window ledge near the main entrance. It was immediately removed for examination. This bomb was said to be similar to one which exploded at the British residency early in December.

GET RID OF INDIGESTION IN A FEW MINUTES, OR Get Your Money Back

"Pepto-Bismol" and milk of magnesia only make you feel worse in most cases, for they weaken the digestive acid in your stomach, so it cannot digest your food properly.
Pepto-Bismol does not upset your stomach.
It cures indigestion quickly in a few minutes
by stopping the souring of food in your stomach and the decay of food in your bowels. The souring in Pepto-Bismol which stops souring and decay, any four of the finest medicines known to physicians. Read them on the bottle.
Also, Pepto-Bismol is not a patent medicine. It is a prescription for The Norwich Pharmaceutical Company, whose Unquestioned and whose medicines have held the respect of physicians, surgeons, hospitals, nurses and doctors for nearly 30 years.

If Pepto-Bismol does not get rid of your indigestion, return the bottle after the bottle and your money back in a few minutes. Get your money back from your druggist. Deliver the bottle to him in his hand. Price 30c.
But don't be deceived by cheap imitations.
Your druggist has the "Pepto-Bismol" logo.
Look for the name Pepto-Bismol by name. Look for the name Pepto-Bismol on the bottle. Before the name of "Pepto-Bismol" is not a good which may hinder, instead of help your digestion. Ask for Pepto-Bismol by name and get what you need for.

A SEAT in the CABINET

JOSEPH T. ROBINSON
(Editor's Note: This is the seventeenth of a series of articles picturing briefly possible members of the Roosevelt cabinet.)

Nearly 30 years of legislative experience on both sides of the capitol would go with Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas into a cabinet position, should he be among those called by President Roosevelt to form his official cabinet.

Robinson—minority leader in the senate for nearly eight years—went to that chamber in 1913 after five years in the house and an in-between tour of duty of a few weeks
as governor of his state.

This 70-year-old Arkansas who is rated one of the ablest lawyers in the senate was admitted to the bar in his home state in 1885 at the age of 22, after studying at the University of Arkansas and the University of Virginia.

Hanging up his shingle was but the starting gun of his political career, as 1894 found him a member of the Arkansas general assembly, which was followed by service as a presidential elector and his trip to the national house of representatives in the fifty-eighth congress.

Robinson was the vice presidential running mate of Democratic standard-bearer Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

When it comes to feathering their own nests, some people aren't so ticklish.

There on the bank all the Calves
crowd around him.
They poke and they jab and they pummel and pound him.
"I don't like to fight," cries our hero,
"unless
I'm forced to take part, then I love
such a mess."

Business Girls' Club Enjoys Travel Talk

The regular weekly meeting of the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A., was held on Wednesday evening, and as usual a delicious supper was served by the supper committee. Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, chairman, Miss Phillips announced that for the month of February the girls of the club would be divided into the following groups and each group would have charge of a program:

February 1—Miscellaneous Occupations—Chairman, Mrs. Sherwood Lasher.

February 8—Teachers—Miss Helen Bradburn, chairman.

February 15—Clerks and Clerical Workers—Miss Ruth Bell, chairman.

February 22—Stenographers and Secretaries—Miss Marion Coutant, chairman.

She also announced the forming of a new wintering exercises class at 7:30, with Miss Ottillio Riccoboni in charge of the group. Miss Phillips then spoke of the annual meeting which is to be held on Friday evening of this week at 7:30 o'clock, at which time Dr. James T. Shotwell will speak on "Can America Stay at Home?"

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. William C. Kingman, who took as her subject Paris and Italy. In connection with her trip Mrs. Kingman stressed the importance of as much preparatory study as possible for any kind of travel in order that each traveler may secure the maximum advantage. To illustrate her talk Mrs. Kingman showed many beautiful cards purchased in France and Italy depicting the beautiful churches, cathedrals and other public buildings. She described, in Paris, in particular, the Notre Dame Cathedral, the Pantheon and the last resting place of the Emperor Napoleon. In Italy her travels took her to Naples and Pompeii with its thrill of antiquity. She described in detail the Amalfi Drive, the Island of Capri, Rome with its St. Peter's Cathedral, St. Paul's without the walls, the Pantheon, the Colosseum, and the Caputini Church, and Florence and Venice, wonder cities of Italy, with their romance and art. The girls were most appreciative of Mrs. Kingman and urged her to come at some future time and tell them about Switzerland.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karim to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks grim, don't swallow a lot of pills, natural water, oil, honey, or ready-to-swallow gum and expect them to make you healthy, content and happy and full of life.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere momentary relief is all that comes. The reason for your discomfort and feeling is your liver. It should pour out bile freely and keep it into your system daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just sits in the stomach. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in eruptions. Your liver aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is diseased.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "top and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amounting to more than making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25¢ at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Fishy
A scientist says that fish, under certain conditions, will blush. So will some species of fishermen, but not when relating their exploits, which is when they ought to blush.—Kansas City Star.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Cherrytown, Md.—There's nothing new for Mrs. Evelyn Harris, a Kent county widow, in this talk about death.

For ten years, ever since her husband died, she has supported her family by wrapping products from her farms for other necessities.

When the children needed haircuts, she swapped a basket of potatoes for the barber's labor. Logs from her walnut forest were exchanged for fertilizer.

She once had a serious operation performed in Baltimore in exchange for a two weeks' vacation on her farm for the surgeon.

Twins Calves.
Minneapolis.—The twins had things all their own way at the home of Herbert and James Rotsch when they celebrated their fourteenth birthday anniversary the other day. Fourteen pairs of twins came to their party. Herbert and James are also twins.

Happy Ending for Hamlet.
Chicago.—The story of Hamlet, a tragedy, has turned out to be a comedy. Hamlet, Great Dane pup, which vanished from the home of its owner,

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, was returned safely by two boys. So the ten cents a week "salary" President Hutchins' six year old daughter, Francis, collected for caring for the animal, still go on.

Probably a Black Cat.
Holtville, Cal.—A small kitten turned out all the lights in Holdenville, Kansas and Kowawa when it strayed along a steel beam at a station and came in contact with a 22,000-volt wire, shorting the circuit. The kitten died.

He Breaks The Personal Now.
Oklahoma City.—From now on, Audrey A. Black, Ringwood, Okla., is going to read the classified ads. Because his mother noticed a "personal" in the classified ads of an Oklahoma city daily, Black was $1,500 better off today. An heir to the estate of a great-uncle who died in Springfield, Ill., six years ago, Black was unaware of that fact. Within a few months the money would have reverted to the state.

You Don't Say!
Montreal.—A man named Rindau, which may be translated as "nothing but water," was convicted of false pretences because he promised to deliver two gallons of whiskey for $15 but later admitted he had nothing but water with which to make a drink.

Gangway for Gas Hugger.
Chicago.—The old-age marathon for automobiles is under way. Organizers for Chicago's coming automobile show announced a "hand-some prize" would be given for the oldest car in the middle-west. Two hundred have been offered so far. Seven of them were made before 1900.

All seven are still running under their own power.

K. of C. Ball Will Be Held on February 17

The 14th annual charity ball, sponsored by Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will be held in the new state armory on Friday evening, February 17. REGULAR MEETING OF STONE RIDGE GRANGE

Stone Ridge, Jan. 16.—Stone Ridge Grange, No. 531, met in regular session Monday night, January 16. There were some 20 members present, who did not forget the new officers to whom they had pledged loyal support in a common undertaking. At the regular business meeting the Service and Hospitality Committee was appointed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Emma Beatty. Posters already displayed advertising a card and domino party in the Grange Hall on Tuesday evening, February 7, at 8:30. The proceeds of this party will go to the treasury of this committee, so that it may continue its charitable work.

The lecturer's program provided interesting material for a friendly evening. One did not have to look at the Grange's charter draped in black to know that a cloak of sadness and loss hung over the normally happy occasion of a Grange meeting. Colors dark and sombre were in memory of the recent loss of a beloved sister of the Stone Ridge Grange and the untimely passing of a wife and mother, Mrs. Charles Allen.

The spelling bee during the literary work provided some good drill to the pleasure and enjoyment of all. After the close of the Grange all enjoyed the refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee which had been planned with a thought to a larger attendance but which were handsomely consumed by the increased appetites of those who did attend.

The next meeting on Monday night, February 6, promises to be an interesting one and it is hoped that with the epidemic of colds waning, a larger number of the patrons will attend.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. COULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

The touch of irony in the cancellation for 1933 of the picturesque Poughkeepsie Regatta seems to me the fact it wipes out the climax to the one sport of which the Carnegie Foundation's Bulletin 27, in 1929, was able to say:

"Rowing appears to be the only major branch of intercollegiate athletics from which commercialism is absent."

I do not question the costliness of maintaining crews. It has cost Cornell as much as $25,000 a year to float its big Navy on the historic waters of Cayuga and elsewhere. Washington has raised upwards of $10,000 just to send its best crews to the Hudson.

Obviously the present and prospective situation does not warrant most of the colleges continuing such expenditures, with their normal revenues cut in half, yet it is a fact that the pious phrases of the Carnegie Report of four years ago now sound quite hollow indeed, in the light of developments which show that only the self-sustaining or commercialized college sports, like football and basketball, are able to weather the economic tide.

Penalize The "Amateurs"

Of course the Carnegie Foundation investigators and authors of Bulletin 23 pointed out the dangers in the structure of athletic financing and operations which grew up with the boom times, deferring to the benefits of intramural sports, for example, the report remarked:

"The pity is that such beneficial results as are now being achieved are allowed to depend universally upon the financial prosperity of football."

But it went on to say, also: "High rate receipts inevitably reflect commercialism and all the evils that follow in its train."

Luxuries were cited, but among them were not listed the great sport of rowing or the other poor intercollegiate cousins of the moneyed gridiron monarch. The fact now seems to be that the sports cancelled or the events curtailed are being craved from the 1933 picture in direct ratio to the simon-pure element involved.

The more nearly amateur a given competition may be, the less chance it appears to have of surviving existing conditions.

Certainly it indicates those who decried the commercialism of 1929, when all the big colleges had surplus money in the bank, but who now are decrying the circumstances that force the abandonment of the least commercial of all college championships—the Poughkeepsie Regatta.

Weren't Given A Chance

The stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association may be quite correct in their conclusions and decision, yet I think many, including the oarsmen themselves, would have liked the chance to put up a struggle to retain so thrilling an event as the big regatta on the Hudson.

Who will ever forget how Stanford's boys scrambled their way to Poughkeepsie in 1915, borrowed a shell and almost beat one of Cornell's greatest varsity eight? Or for that matter, what a fight all the old-timers made for years to keep rowing going, when its followers had to "dig down" or see the sport disappear.

Prestige would not have depended on having a capacity fleet on the Hudson again this year. With an earlier date, the boys would have managed to train at home and get to Poughkeepsie, somehow, with enough shells to boat the crews.

BILLIARDS

The City Championship

In the second match of the tournament for the billiard championship of Kingston, "Pie" Murphy defeated Steve Kaslich, 100-55, at the Koenig A. C. Wednesday night. Murphy trailed his opponent until the 25th inning, when he took the lead with a high run of 13 balls. Kaslich's best run was 12.

Tonight at the Nick Kaslich parlor, Wall street, Clifton Quick opposes Stan Wojcik. Starting time is 8 o'clock.

In the first match of the tourney, Charlie Bovie defeated Julius Teiler, present city champion, 100-44.

Landerway Wins.

Wednesday night at the Raskoel billiard parlor, Pete Szyzpa of that place lost to Leo Landerway, of the North Rondout Social Club, in a match of the tournament between the two clubs. Final score was 100-97, and the match one of the best so far. High runs were Szyzpa 14, Landerway 13. The team score is now 12-8 in favor of the N. R. S. C.

Tonight at 7:30 in the parlor of the N. R. S. C. Bobby Hart meets Harry Eitel. If Hart wins, the tourney prize goes to the North Rondouters; if he loses there will be another match. A large crowd is expected to see tonight's battle.

BRITISH RACQUETEERS

PLAN U. S. INVASION

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Despite the blows Old Man Depression has landed on international sports, a brief, informal tennis invasion of the United States is planned by a team of four English players early in March.

The English team, composed of E. R. Avery, seventh ranking player; K. C. Gander-Dower, R. K. Tankier and H. C. N. Cooper will clash with four representatives of the International Club of New York, first in Bermuda in connection with the annual tennis championships there then in New York. Probably on March 7 and 8, Clifford Satter, Gregory Manig, George N. Lett and Sydney Wood are expected to make up the American team in Bermuda.

LAUGHING at DEATH

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL

(This is the second of a series of six articles on the career of Sir Malcolm Campbell, world's greatest racing car driver.)

By TED GILL

Daytona Beach, Fla. (AP)—A twelve-mile stretch of ocean beach, 500 feet wide, paralleled on one side by a receding surf, shimmering with white-caps in a brilliant sun, and on the other by high, irregular sand dunes, lined with thousands of excited spectators.

That, in brief, is a picture of the famous racing strip where Sir Malcolm Campbell of England will seek to better his own world automobile speed record of 254 miles an hour.

The trials, set for the middle of February, will mark his fourth assault upon the record here.

Rolled out smooth as a billiard table and packed down hard as concrete by the pounding waves, the course presents facilities for high speed racing that have been found nowhere else in the world.

Located in the middle of the sandy stretch is the officially measured dash in less than 14.17 seconds, the time for the existing record.

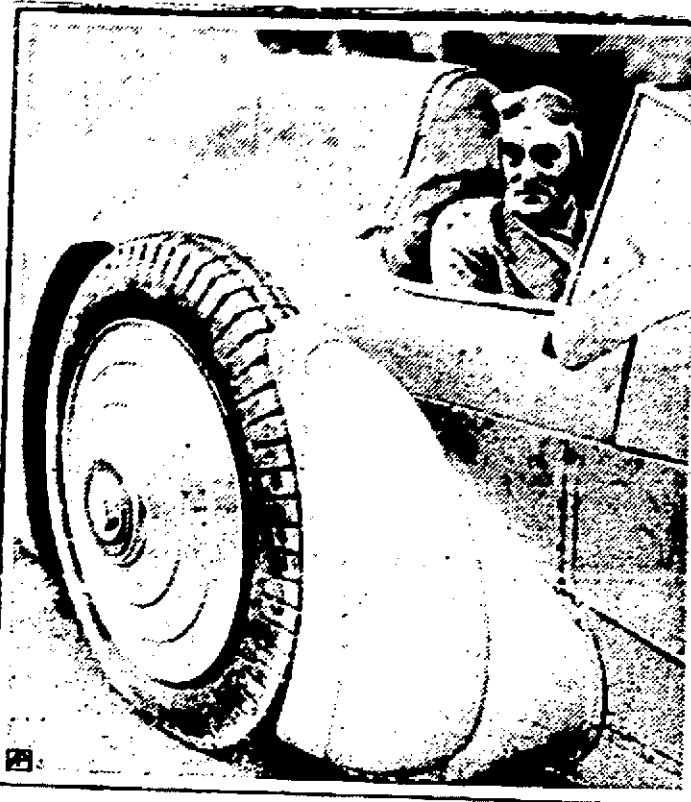

Taking a five mile rolling start, the driver shifts into high gear as quickly as possible and presses the long accelerator to the floorboard, in order that his giant 2,500 horsepower "Bluebird" may pick up its maximum speed before entering the official mile.

To the excited spectators in the grandstand, who train binoculars on the distant horizon, the hurtling car at first appears as a tiny speck. Faster, faster it rushes with increasing acceleration, barely skimming the crystal sands.

A Roar—And He's Gone

Suddenly, with a mighty roar, the machine, like a speeding arrow, streaks past the grandstand in the blueish blur. Then, almost before the spectators can turn their heads to follow its course, the car has disappeared in the distance, to come to a gradual stop five miles away.

After a careful inspection of the

A striking close-up of Sir Malcolm Campbell in the cockpit of his 2,500 horsepower "Bluebird", in which he will attempt to shatter his own world land speed record of 254 miles an hour. Note that the top of the rear wheel almost is level with his shoulder.

trim machine, the driver jumps back into the cockpit for another and rush over the course. Rules provide that he must make two runs, one with the wind and the other against it. The second must be completed not more than an hour after the start of the first.

At the start and finish of the measured mile, a wire is stretched crosswise of the beach, about three inches above the sand. When the wheels of the speeding car strike the wire, the action throws a switch, which in turn causes an electric apparatus to register the time the big machine enters and leaves the official mile.

Averaging the elapsed time for the two runs, and dividing it into 3,600, or the number of seconds in an hour,

Applause His Only Reward

Up and down the twelve-mile stretch is an elaborate network of telephone wires. Stationed at each mile-post is a course attendant, who keeps timing officials advised of the progress of the car.

If the trials are successful, Campbell returns to the grandstand where he is given an ovation by the cheering crowd. A brief interview with newspapermen and then he motors to his hotel to rest—another speed record to his credit.

Gasoline Vapor

One gallon of gasoline at 60 degrees F. is said to average 6.15 pounds in weight. According to Mechanical Engineer's Handbook, one pound of gasoline vapor at 62 degrees F. and at atmospheric pressure has a volume of 4.2 cubic feet. At this rate, a gallon of gasoline would produce about 25.9 cubic feet of vapor. The gas ignited in an automobile cylinder is of course a mixture of gasoline with a very large amount of air. It has been stated that if one gallon of gasoline be completely changed to vapor, it will render the air in a room 21 by 10 by 10 feet explosive; or a quart for a room 8 by 8 by 8 feet. One authority has estimated that automobile engines are able to utilize less than 5 per cent of the tremendous energy stored up in gasoline, the other 95 per cent being either thrown away entirely or used up in friction.

Birth of American Navy

The American navy came into existence in 1775 after the close investment of Boston by Washington had cut off all supplies to the British troops, save such as might arrive by water. To intercept these, some small vessels were armed and manned by New England seamen, first under the auspices of Rhode Island and Connecticut, and afterward by authority of the congress which organized a naval committee with John Adams at its head. These little craft not only deprived the enemy of succor, but captured enough prizes to furnish the Colonial army with war material, without which it could not have continued hostilities.

Wealth Measured by Reindeer Herd

The wealth of the Laplander is measured by the number of reindeer he possesses. These animals yield to their owners milk, meat and leather which is used for making boots, clothing, tents and harness, and the skins of the reindeer are used as rope. As a pack animal the reindeer has at least one advantage over the use of dogs; the reindeer feeds its food where it rests, but the driver of a dog team must take food for his dogs along with him.

STILL PRETENDING

She told the clerk she was looking for a book to give to a seven-year-old niece who is being graduated this month.
"Something very unsophisticated," she added.
The clerk's eye twinkled. "Unsophisticated?" he asked. "It's my opinion that girls nowadays are more sophisticated than their elders."
"Yes, I know," returned the customer, with a sigh. "But we have to go on pretending that we don't know it."
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Cause

She was gazing with the eyes of a hare-worshiper at the new congressman.
"Were you frightened when you got up to make your very first election speech?" she asked.
"What should frighten me?" he asked offhandedly.
"The audience, of course," she continued.
"The audience left as soon as my name was announced," he frankly replied.

CAUSE FOR EGO

"What's 106 so swelled up about?"
"The prison critics have just put him on the All-Criminal team for this year."

Just Like Him

They were on a farmhouse holiday, and after the first night Smith was a bit out of sorts.

"I've had practically no sleep," he complained to his wife. "Those beastly roosters have been crowing out there in the barn since dawn!"

"Well, darling," murmured his wife, sweetly, "once when you got up early, you crowed about it for at least a week!" —Prairie Farmer.

Flattery From Josh

"How has your boy Josh been doing at college?"

"Pretty well," answered Cornstossel. "He's already beginning to act like a statesman."

"Making speeches?"

"No, writing letters. He can't make his budget balance and he flatters me by treating me like the Great American public that's always expected to produce." —Washington Star.

Some Fig

The young wife went into the grocery. "I bought three or four hams here a month or so ago," she said, "and they were fine. Have you any more of them?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the grocer. "There are ten of those hams hanging there now."

SAFE

"So you throw me down, eh? Well, remove will make you eat your very heart out."

Combined

Tommy asked John, a young school-fellow, to tea. John, who came from a much larger house, said with surprise: "What, have you only one room? We have a dining room and a drawing room."

"Oh, have you?" said Tommy, undaunted. "Well—we draw in the dining room." —Pearson's.

English

Father (to boy of six, just home from school)—What lesson did you learn this morning?

Boy—Oh, grammar!

Father—What sort of grammar?

Boy—Well, dad, cats and dogs are common nouns, and you and I are proper nouns. —London Evening News.

Racial Trouble

"What on earth is the matter?" said the doctor's friend. "You look awfully mad."

"I should think so, too," was the angry reply. "Here I have been treating a patient for three years for yellow jaundice and I've only just learned that he's a Chinese." —Tit-Bits.

One for the Old Man

Her Dad—But can you support my daughter on your salary?

Ambitious—Well, I'd probably have to go into debt doing it, just as she says you did.

Overheard at a Riding Club

"I want to rent a horse."

"The longest one you have. There are four of us."

Current Wit and Humor

IN THEORY

Husband and wife were seated in the garden in the dusk of a summer evening. He was doing most of the talking.

"Very interesting," she said, when he finally concluded.

"I'm glad to find you're so interested and impressed, dear, by these explanations about banking and economics," he told her proudly.

"Yes, darling," she replied. "It seems wonderful that anybody could know as much as you do about money without having any of it."

Unbothered

"Are you bothered by lobbyists?"
"Never," answered Senator Benignus. "I don't know whether to feel complimented or not. They must regard me either as strictly honest or entirely unimportant." —Washington Star.

Precise

New Maid—How do I announce dinner? Do I say "Dinner is ready" or "Dinner is served?"

Missus—If it is like it was yesterday, just say "Dinner is burned." —Gazzettino Illustrations (Venice).

Out in the Open

Back-seat Driver—This is a wretchedly poor road you have taken, John. Husband—It has one compensation, my dear. We're not getting more than ten billboards to the mile. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Professional Decision

A well-known judge entered a restaurant in which he had dined before.

"Will you try our turtle soup?" asked the waiter.

"I have tried it," returned his honor, "and my verdict is that the turtle has proved an alibi!"

"Did Mrs. Swift take her husband's failure in the right spirit?"

"Oh, yes. Just as soon as she knew he was going to fail she went out and bought her entire spring outfit."

Down in the Deep

The Diver—Why do you girls look so blue this morning?

Mermiad—Why, some one invited Mr. Octopus to our bridge party and he held so many hands he won all the money.

Coming Events

Miss Rabbit—My dear Mr. Snake, I just can't look at you without feeling charmed.

Mr. Snake—And if I look at you much longer I know there will be a lump in my throat.

Such a Dear Girl

Mother—And who has been the most popular girl in school this year?

Small Daughter—I should think Elsie Jones. She gave us all chick-enpox. —London Humorist.

At the Beach

Joggs—What happened to that handsome guard they used to have here?

Dogs—Oh, his wife came out to be rescued so often he had to resign.

TOOK HIM DOWN

Friend—That passenger tried to treat you in a high-handed way, didn't he? Elevator Man—Yes, but I took him down."

Safety First—Last

Cop—What do you mean driving 30 miles an hour?

Pretty Motorist—My brakes don't work, and I was hurrying home before I had an accident.

Overheard at a Riding Club

Good Pup, but Got in Bad:
He Ruined Guest's Teeth
A New York family had a young dog of which it was very fond. He was a good puppy, except for the fact that he would on occasion chew things he was not supposed to masticate. His worst exhibition in this line happened at the family's country place on Long Island at a time when several guests were staying over the week-end. It was warm and some of the guests left their doors ajar. In the morning the dog was discovered by a member of the family chewing on something but apparently making little headway. Examination disclosed that it was an upper plate containing the "store teeth" of a rather sensitive guest, who wished it believed that his ivory smile was all his own. There was nothing to be done. Those teeth were beyond wearing. The family could only wait in horror for their guest to wake to toothless tragedy.—Detroit News.

Morrigold an Old Flower
The Tagetes marigolds are ordinarily of two kinds, the African and the French marigolds, which have been cultivated for several centuries. The French marigolds are smaller, spreading, free flowering, brown and yellow in color, and lasting all summer. The African are taller, long stemmed, large flowered and used considerably for cut-flower purposes. These colors are lemon and orange. Varieties of both kinds are visited by certain birds of the late season, and seem to furnish them with seeds as food. Most marigolds are grown from seed sown in the green house and the seedlings transplanted to open ground from flats or boxes. No other annual gets such a uniform start, nor transplants from flats to the open ground so easily.

Various Types of Iris
The genus Moraea represents the iris of the southern hemisphere. In Africa and Australia, where various species are found, the flower is called iris by the settlers, who have at the same time some of the true iris forms in their gardens. The most familiar and beautiful Moraea is that called the wedding iris, an Australian flower which grows in company with the New Zealand flax and other similar plants in our conservatories. The flower closely resembles an iris, as does the plant. The rootstock is slender and short, bearing regularly placed equidistant rows of rigid leaves. It is propagated from young plants, produced at the end of long, slender flowering shoots, by cutting up the rhizomes, or by seeds which are abundantly formed.

London's Garbage Disposal
Ancient scandal is found in London's antiquated disposal of its garbage. It is simply taken to a lonely spot outside the city and dumped. There is one at Crayford which has been used for seventy years and another at Horsham which is ninety feet high and grows by 350,000 tons every year. The chemistry of its decomposition gives off a cloud of smoke visible a mile away. There is another dump near the home of George Bernard Shaw, but even his vigorous protests over the smell and flies have not changed things.—Montreal Herald.

Painter for Dog Lover
A daily brushing instead of an all-over bath is recommended for the baby dog under three months old, by those who know the whys and wherefores of dogology. Should it become necessary to bathe a very young puppy, say the experts, every precaution should be taken to guard him against taking cold. Baths in winter are particularly dangerous. For the grown dog, a bath once every three weeks should suffice during the winter, though a daily grooming and brushing is good for him.

"Bob-White" Call Only in Spring
The "bob-white" call is rarely heard after the spring hatching season. From that time on until the following spring the chief call used by the quail is the one that helps keep their families together. This close family association is seldom broken up earlier unless the birds are scattered by hunters.

Improperly Fitted
Collars on Horses

Harness Too Tight Stops Normal Breathing.
By R. M. REED, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

How long can a horse hold its breath?
The question isn't as pointless and useless as it would seem at first glance. With the improperly fitted collar now used on far too many horses, the question of how long they can hold their breath determines how long they can keep pulling when they are trying to move a heavy load, he explained.

This has been demonstrated at numerous horse and mule pulling contests which the extension service of the agricultural college has held over the state to determine what relation size, type, soundness, condition, training, driving, shoeing and style and fit of collar and harness have to pulling ability of horses.

When a team which is fitted with collars which are too tight is pulling at a load which is lighter, not heavier, than its real ability, the dynamometer is pulled about the same distance each of the three trials at the particular load. If a team which pulls in this manner is observed closely, it becomes evident that the collars have hindered or stopped normal breathing, and that the horses have pulled as long as they could hold their breath.

At some contests competent men have examined the teams and found that as many as three out of four were equipped with collars which prevented the horses from pulling to the best advantage.

The average properly harnessed team which is attempting to pull a load even greater than its ability will pull the dynamometer a shorter distance on each of its three trials. This is natural when it is considered that a great deal of energy must be expended in pulling the heavier loads.

Packing in Lard Good Way to Keep Sausage
To keep sausage during the cool months, Miss Alice M. Child, home economist, Minnesota University farm, suggests two methods. One method is to make the sausage into patties and fry until a delicate brown and thoroughly cooked. Pack in a sterilized crock and cover well with hot lard. Beef patties may also be handled in the same manner.

The second method is as follows: Pack a small crock or a two-quart jar with raw sausage, pressing meat down firmly. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.), two and one-half hours for jars, or three hours for crocks. The fat which rises to the top will form a seal when it cools and solidifies. If the fat is not two inches thick, add a little hot lard. This method sterilizes the container, cooks the meat and renders some of the lard for searing. Miss Child cautions that the sausage should be thoroughly cooked.

Some interesting uses for sausage, suggested by Miss Child, include: Baked squash stuffed with sausage, or green peppers stuffed with sausage, or cottage pie with sausage. Cottage pie is made by placing the cooked sausage in a baking dish, covering it with mashed potatoes and browning in the oven, or until the sausage and potato are thoroughly heated.

Watch Growing Pigs
More pigs suffer from a lack of protein and minerals in their rations than is generally realized. This would not be the case if more attention were paid to their feed. A pig that is self-fed—and all pigs intended for the market should be self-fed—a ration of corn or other farm grains, supplemented with a mixture of tankage, soybean meal and linseed or cottonseed meal, and given free access to salt and a simple mineral mixture, will not suffer from mineral deficiencies.

Where skim milk and buttermilk is available for supplementing the farm grown grains, consider that two gallons are equal in protein and mineral content to one pound of the usual trinity protein mixture. The mistake is too often made when milk is fed to assume that most any amount is sufficient for balancing a grain ration. Milk is one of the very best protein supplements because its protein has a very high nutritive value, but never forget that milk carries only 13 per cent of solid matter.—Wallaces' Farmer.

Should Keep Books
For those who shy at the idea of keeping books on the entire farm business, let us suggest that they at least try to check the income and outgo on the main farm enterprise, such as hog raising. One of the main essentials is a scale, although this is not absolutely necessary. Keep track of number of bushels of feed put into self-feeders and know amount paid for purchased feed.—Wallaces' Farmer.

Agricultural Notes
The amount of flour from a bushel of wheat is enough to make from 42 to 51 one-pound loaves of bread.

The average farm family accumulates more wealth and lives longer than does the average city family.

New York city used a greater bulk of vegetables than of any other food last year, or 220,000 carloads of vegetables compared to 142,015 carloads of milk.

Howe About:

Another Stingy Story
Rise of the Poor Boys
People in the Audience

By ED HOWE

IF THOSE many "stories" were not printed already, I would write another, and it would be a true one. It is being said of a man I know well that he has given away more than any other citizen of his town. He became a philanthropist.

For forty years he has been a merchant and banker, known as stingy, and a hard worker. Also for forty years he has been admitted to have paid his debts, educated his children and built a comfortable home for his family.

Always he has had brisk competition, and, in greedily meeting it has been forced to be liberal in extending credit. In the course of forty years he has been beaten out of so much that it is gossip among the town men who know most about his affairs that no other citizen has helped an equal number of poor people.

About all he has left now at seventy, the men further say, is a good home, a bank and general store he is able to keep open with difficulty, credit, and the reputation of being his town's greatest philanthropist.

Moral: A man cannot give away anything, or be robbed of anything, until he works hard, and saves something.

Nothing impresses me more in reading the history of the human race than the great number of poor boys who have become useful, respected and famous. Stephen A. Douglas is an example; Abraham Lincoln, who was a poorer boy, and became a greater man, is another.

I have never lived in a town where its most useful and respected citizens had not started as poor boys. The poverty of man is never so great it is not natural and easy to somewhat work out of it.

The world is very old; Einstein said to be the greatest living scientist, lately added seven billion years to its age. And through it all the poor boy story persists. Look at history as far back as we have record, and nine out of ten of its conspicuous figures have been poor boys who wouldn't tamely submit to unnecessary poverty and ignorance.

A reporter wandering about looking for the unusual ran into three noted moving picture people. A man in the party had never been on the screen, yet in his "story" the reporter said this man was by far the most interesting personality in the group.

Another compliment for the people in the audience. In every entertainment there are people in the audience smarter than the entertainers; every book is read by men smarter than the writer.

If the people in the audience could somehow effectively organize, they could get more for their money in everything.

I have been reading accounts of rioting all my life, and noted that when it begins good citizens lock their shutters and doors, and hide. . . This is a mistaken policy. Nearly always rioting is engaged in by the most mistaken and useless of the minority. When it begins, good citizens representing the majority should promptly engage in and suppress it, instead of hiding.

So far as my poor judgment is able to direct me Bernard Shaw is a man of very unusual intelligence, and of all the men now writing he is very near the top in use of the pen. Thus he drew in the lottery of life not only one talent, but two; he is like a double-purpose horse which trots in harness, single-foots under the saddle, and sells for an extra price.

Mr. Shaw lately confessed, at the age of seventy-three, that he has accomplished nothing with his writing, and that the world is now in more danger than it was when he began giving it advice.

His weakness is he has never written simply, candidly and truthfully. He has used his terrific power of invective to unjustly abuse, sell his writing, and make a fortune; he is one of the worst of the money grabbers he denounces so incessantly, and usually so unjustly.

He is weakening a little, as a result of old age, but before the world finally quite him, I wish he would write his Confessions as candidly as Rousseau promised to do in the first pages of his famous book. Shaw might thus wash up and quit work with a burst of usefulness he has long been capable of and as long neglected. And to accomplish this great success in old age he need only tell the truth everybody knows—Shaw a little better than anyone else. Let him write as honestly as he thinks in every one of three hundred pages, and he will not again say he has accomplished no good in the world.

When I was a child it was said of a thin boy in our neighborhood he ate so much it made him poor to carry it; that his eyes were bigger than his stomach. . . That is the trouble with most adults and nations now.

During my life I have encountered few downright villains, but many shiftless, careless men who have caused a villainous lot of trouble.

"Little Stories
for Bedtime"
by Thornton W.
BurgessTHE BREEZES DECIDE TO HELP STRIPED CHIPMUNK

HAPPY JACK SQUIRREL and his cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel, stared at each other, and for a few minutes neither could find a word to say. What had become of all those brown nuts which the Merry Little Breezes had stolen down from the top of the tall chestnut tree, and over which they had quarrelled and fought so bitterly? Not one was to be found. It was just as if there never had been any. The Merry Little Breezes knew what had become of them, and they chuckled. Sammy Jay knew what had become of them, and he chuckled the most of all. In fact, Striped Chipmunk was at that very minute tucking away the very last of those brown nuts in his secret storehouse. No wonder he chuckled.

Of course, Happy Jack and Chatterer soon guessed that while they had been so foolishly quarrelling, some one else had found those brown nuts and taken them away, but who that some one was they didn't know. What do you think they did after staring at each other for a few minutes? It sounds too foolish to tell, but they began to quarrel again. Yes, sir, Happy Jack and Chatterer began to quarrel again.

"It's all your fault!" snapped Happy Jack, gritting his teeth. "If you hadn't been such a greedy pig, we would both have had some of those nuts!" barked Chatterer.

And then they went at it again, quarrelling as bitterly as before and quite forgetting that there were more nuts in the trees waiting to be gathered. The Merry Little Breezes had been shocked at first, and now they were disgusted, very much disgusted. "And I thought we were going to help!" exclaimed the Merry Little Breeze who had first suggested shaking down the brown nuts that Happy Jack and Chatterer might be saved the trouble of climbing the trees for them. "I'll never shake down another nut for those fellows if I know it!" "But we did help!" cried another Merry Little Breeze. "We helped Striped Chipmunk. Weren't it funny to see him get all those nuts while his cousins were quarrelling about them? I tell you what, let's go hunt up Striped Chipmunk and help him and leave those two bad-tempered fellows to get their nuts any way they can."

No sooner was it proposed than off rushed the Merry Little Breezes to look for Striped Chipmunk. They found him running along the edge of the Green Forest looking for more nuts.

"Hello, Striped Chipmunk! Come play with us!" shouted one of them, mischievously, knowing just what Striped Chipmunk's answer would be. "Can't! I'm too busy," replied Striped Chipmunk, snapping his bright eyes at them.

"Will you play with us after your work is done if we will help you do it?" asked one of the Merry Little Breezes. Striped Chipmunk paused to sit up and chuckle, as only he can chuckle. "I'd like to know how you can help me?" said he.

"How do you think all those brown nuts happened to be on the ground, the ones you have just hidden away while your cousins were quarrelling?" demanded a Merry Little Breeze. "Why, I suppose they just dropped down," replied Striped Chipmunk wonderingly.

"You're wrong!" shouted the Merry Little Breezes. "We shook them down for your cousins. But we wouldn't have done it if we had known that they would quarrel over them. Now they may climb the trees and gather the nuts for themselves for all we care."

"That is something I can't do very well," said Striped Chipmunk. "You know I am not much of a climber. I have to depend on what I find on the ground, and sometimes it is pretty hard work to find enough. I didn't know you shook those down, but I'm glad you did. Now I must get busy. When my work is done I'll play with you." Striped Chipmunk started to hurry on.

"Wait a minute," cried the Merry Little Breezes. "We are going to help you. You follow us and we'll shake down the nuts for you, but we must go where Happy Jack and Chatterer will not see what we are doing. What do you say to that?"

"Splendid!" cried Striped Chipmunk, chasing his tail from pure happiness. "Do you really mean it?" "We certainly do!" cried the Merry Little Breezes. "Come on!"
